Planning Units

- Tool that lets you reassign planning units to modify boundaries
- Lists planning unit #, number of students residing & attending within that area, number of students transferring into that school, and school boundary to which that area is currently assigned
- Reassigning a planning unit will update enrollment & utilization in real time

ASSUMPTIONS

- We are using current school year actual student data to calculate impacts of boundary changes.
- We will consider projection data as we make recommendations
- K-12 students that have chosen to attend a school other than their zoned school or were assigned to another school for special education or other services are locked and will not be moved in a boundary change scenario.
- PreK students are not locked, and we can model moving PreK programs to other schools (separate boundaries for PK).
- Boundary changes will be less impactful on schools that have high percentages of students transferring in from outside of the boundary (Miller Magnet Middle, Central HS, Burdell Hunt Magnet)

OBSERVATIONS

- Average enrollment of the elementary schools is 477, if we do not consolidate and want to balance enrollment to get schools closer to 477 which is above the 450 threshold for optimal state funding, we are going to need to take away from schools that are well enrolled (above 600 students).
- There is lots of room in Southfield, Heard, and MLK, but if we put more kids in them, it means we will have more schools under 450.
- If we don't want to consolidate… we can't focus on utilization. We have to look at balancing enrollment numbers.

CURRENT ELEMENARY BOUNDARIES

- Currently 9 out of 19 elementary schools with an attendance boundary are below 450 enrollment

BOUNDARY SCENARIO

No Consolidation

- Reduces schools under 450 enrollment from 9 to 5
- 564 elementary students impacted
- Schools with higher enrollments are impacted to bring lower enrolled schools above 450
  - This may be difficult to justify to community members

FURTHER DISCUSSION

- Enrollment projections are not showing an increase in student enrollment.
  - We can temporarily balance enrollment, but is consolidation inevitable?
- Is impacting families now worth it if we will likely need to come back with consolidation in the next 5 years?
