Description of Services		Consideration				Evaluation and Metrics
Northern California Center for Well Being will train students to be peer mentors to educate on healthy practices, drug and alcohol avoidance, and self-care. This is one of the many ways the Elsie Allen High Schools uses the Mission, Vision, and Priorities of the Board to support students. This program is called Project True.		The program will build the Peer Mentor's confidence in developing and facilitating workshops for their peers, where they will teach trauma-informed coping strategies and educate their peers on healthy self-care behaviors and the risk of substance use. Project TRUE was established in 2010 as a program of the Center for Well-Being and is funded in part by a state tobacco prevention grant that the Center holds from 2020 to 2025.				Twice annual survey of members and student body will show effectiveness of the program.
