- When core facilities (dining, parking, pedestrian & vehicle traffic, toilets, media, student support, etc.) have been significantly overloaded by enrollment.
- When a school has used all means of accommodating students, staff, and programs to include sharing and floating educational programs.
- When temporary classroom additions are not available.
- When attending enrollment reflects and/or base growth projects a significant enrollment beyond capacity, particularly at the entry level grade.
- When a school will realize capacity loss
